NCCER Accredited Training Sponsor and Assessment Center

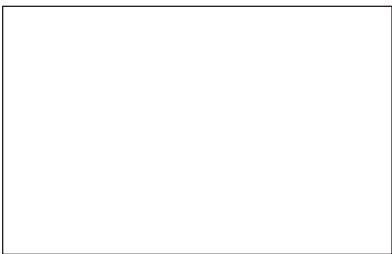

Background/Overview: Tri-State Electrical Contractors Inc. began working with the oil and gas market, performing maintenance and construction. The electrical contractor works with the ISNetworld program to manage a variety of data for conformance verification. The small contractor was overwhelmed with the intricacies of the program and needed help managing the data within the program and assisting with reporting safety-related data.

Problem/Challenge: Tri-State considered two other companies for the project aside from Ayuda LLC.

Solution: Tri-State chose Ayuda because they had the right knowledge, and at the right price and time. Ayuda helped Tri-State in two areas. The first was in Melinda Traynor's experience and knowledge in reporting incidents. She identified that the company was over reporting incidents. By identifying the issue, Tri-State corrected their methods and saved time for employees filling out safety data sheets.

Outcome: The training and correction of reportable incidents saved Tri-State approximately 30 hours every business quarter in time spent filling out safety paperwork. That equates to more than $4,000 in the one year they have been working with Ayuda. That time will continue to be saved. Ayuda now manages a wide variety of data for the company, including self-reported health, safety and procurement-related data.
